An Evening Echo. inspiration. - A. BRONSON AL-

At is Senator Elkins now and it is a sad result of the fate of the state that it will be so only a few days.

The bone of contention between the two old bosses of the Democratic party in this state seems to be which one shall have the long senatorial term. Neither being willing to take the short term, they have decided to fight it out, if it takes all summer, but there may be a different understanding before another moon.

Just how Col. McGraw happened to pick on "Governor" Holt no one exactly knows. It has not been many years since he thought so lit-dangerous playthings it is quite tle of Holt's end of the state that he downed one of Holt's brilliant townsmen for the nomination for governor and brought Cornwell out. The logical supposition is that the colonel picked a man on the enemy's stamping ground, when he trotted Holt

On this basis of assumption what commendable impulses can be engendered by the association of a miniature revolver? True, it may quicken his spirit of patriotism, but does the average American boy need a pistol for this purpose when many other things, including less harmful toys and pyrotechnics, may fully an-Inspiration must find answering swer the purpose? It may also be said that the toy pistol will stimulate the instinct of self-defense, but this can be questioned on the ground that it will instead promote the antithetical trait of cowardice.

In a local case of quite recent oc currence, the toy pistol as a plaything seems to have aroused a spirit of outlawry in the bosoms of three lads, who held up a schood boy, burned and disfigured him and robbed him of the money in his purse. The cap pistol did the trick.

Of course, from the viewpoint of the boy, it is rather hard to kill Indians on the vacant lot with pistols that will not explode when you fire them off, but it is all make-believe anyway and if their wiser and more prudent elders should abolish these likely that young America would continue to slay Indians and slaughter imaginary auffaloes upon the neighboring common in the same old way and with as much vim and fun as ever
